Saturday Evening.

The week is past; the Subbath dawn comes on Hest-rest in prace-thy duity toll is done ; And standing as their standest, on the brink Of a new scene of being, calmiy think Or what is gone, is now, and soon shall be, As one that trembles on eternity. For such as this now closing week is past, So much advancing time will close my last, Such as to-morrow shall the awful light Of the eternal morning hail by eight.

Spirit of Good ! on this week's verge I stand, Tracing the guiding influence of Thy hand; That hard that leads me gently, calmly still, Up life's dark, stony, tiresome, thorny hill. Thou, Thou, in every storm hast sheltered me, Beneath the wing of benignity; A thousand graves my footsteps circuit vent. And I exist-Thy mercy's monument. A thousand writhe upon the lest of pain, I live, and pleasure flows through every vein;

Want o'er a thousand wretches waves her wand,

I, circled by ten thousand mercies, stand. How can I praise Thee, Father! How express My debt of reverence and of thankfulness, A debt that no intelligence can count, White every moment swells the vast amount For week's duties Thou hast given me strength, And brought me to its peaceful close at length And here my grateful bosom fain would mise A fresh memorial to thy glorious praise. - Selected.

Our Island Correspondence.

MACI, July 31, 1867. The Season

Keeps on as beautiful as ever, through July as well as through the past eight months, and in the full enjoyment of the benefits thus conferred upon us by a kind Providence, we have nearly passed the better half of the year 1867 on the tide that knows no oblidrifting along from "Merrie Christmas" to the " Glorious fourth," and from the " Glorious fourth " to "Merrie Christmas"-we play chuttletock be- the road to what appears to be the only solution of tween these two semi-annual mile stones, while Time | the labor question that agitates the Western Hemisslyly puts its broad chalk marks upon our backs and plays all sorts of stage tricks with our respectable phizzes. Green is still the color that, from the wave- of capital and labor. The impracticability of coolie heat shore to the mountain peaks, paints hill and labor is becoming with every year more apparent. 550 dale-a splendid sight, although a rather remarkable People do not, in general, build their homesteads over c. s. For months the silence that rules supreme over To expect that Europeans will descend to fill the these Islands-suddens the heart of the traveler, places of slaves and coolies is ridiculous, and such an whispers ominous tales of a race passing away into idea can only be entertained by those that are ignothe ear of strangers, and gives to the treeless moun- rant of European peoples. The whole labor questain ridges the aspect of mammoth graves-seemed tion points to the indisputable fact that large plantato have crept even into the plantations. The silent tions cannot procure the necessary number of labermill, the closed sugar-house, the smokeless chimneys, ers as formerly, and to a time when every man shall the absence of bustle, and few persons to be seen sit under his own vine or fig tree, and the lion and In the Fire Proof Buildings, Kaahumana and Queen Streets. about the premises, gave to plantations an unwonted | the lamb--[Now stop, Smith, and, in the forcible look of desertion. Silence has fled once more, and language of Demosthenes, let me command you, bustling, noisy labor reigns again on those places- "Dry up."]-when the alternative left to the plancases in these vast Island deserts-from which the tations will be either to break up or to follow the exfountain of life must flow that may eventually re- smple of every Southern plantation, since the emanpeople the desert. All the plantations on Mani, cipation of the slaves, and work on shares or adopt with the exception only of Hans, are at work the European labor system. Under both systems again, outting, grinding, lining, boiling, steaming, drying, packing, bagging, hauling, shipping, wait- be cheerfully entered into by the hardworking and ing, wishing, hoping and-drifting along. Smith provident laboring classes of that distant continent as

"When the price of sugar rises, Then the planters have bright eyeses,"

And well may we wish that the planters' eyes may always be bright, and that the price of sugars may always rise. Planters are the pillars of our presperity, and to them are these Islands mainly indebted for being what they are. Oil may smooth the troubled waters for a time, but as it has to be brought from " far away," cane juice is preferable because indigenous and inexhaustible. At all events I prefer sugar in my Thee to either sperm or right whale oil, a sure sign that my taste differs from Sewand's or Andrew Johnson's, although, quien sabe, that remarkable constitutional adviser, who is at present at Washington, and who has been so successful in the treatment of constitutional diseases, even to the producing an entire new constitution, may succeed, " for a consideration," in convincing Seward and Andrew that Hawaiian cane juice is as good and a better remedy in smoothing that very irritating constitutional cough called "my policy," than walrus oil, salmon, grizzly or fur skins.

Apropos as regards my remarks above, that plantations may become the fountains of

A Future Population.

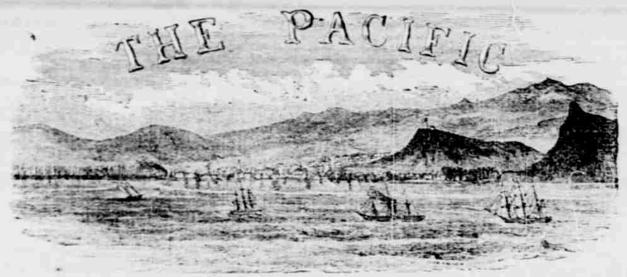

I am led to this opinion by observing the arrangements existing on the Ulupalakua plantation, where quite a little village of laborers' houses is built up, affording-as some of them, in their spotless white, are already nestling among the green of shade trees and bananas-a very charming picture. The houses are built of lumber, and give comfortable accommodation for two families, and have each attached to them a good eistern, closet, &c., and land sufficient for the cultivation of potatoes, vegetables, fruit trees, Ac. The unmarried laborers are accommodated in houses containing generally four rooms, and have also their eistern and garden plot.

Children, Schools and Churches. Less than a year ago it was apparent to any one traveling over the Ulupalakua road, that your Inspector General of Schools had quite overlooked the fact that there might be children near a large plantstion in want of a school. Had he traveled the road he would have noticed the large number of juveniles of both sexes that infested the public thoroughfare from morning till night with clamorous shouts and kicking up a good deal of dirt generally, and no one, knowing the energy of your worthy General and his strong antipathy against sexual intercourse, could doubt that, seeing the state of affairs, would have brought him instantly from his horse to commence vigorously the separation of the lambkins from the ramkins (a by no means so very easy process as it might appear), as both sexes are very often dressed alike in that very fashionable suit, the uma; but, I dare say, long practice in the separation of sexes has made the General a very expert. Smith ven- In Freeproof Store, King street, opposite the Scamen's Chapel. tures the suggestion that a little of it night be very useful among the adults. I observe that the proprietor of Ulupalakua, feeling the necessity of a school for the children of his people, without waiting for the separation of the sexes by the Inspector General aforesaid, set to work and has built a handsome and roomy house, amply provided with seats, desks, &c., to serve during the week as a school-house and on Sundays as a chapel; and not many country churches are, I venture to Of the Boston and Honolulu Packet Line. say, better attended. Time will make the routine of labor and industry habitual to him, and strengthen the attachment to his plantation home. The children born, reared and taught on the plantation will follow in the footsteps
